

Chloë & Jason Roweth trace seditious & rebellious songs of Australia ...

Campfire Seditious

In this toothsome presentation, Jason & Chloe Roweth, two of our finest interpreters of Australian traditional folk music, trace seditious & rebellious songs of interest throughout Australia's history, with an eye for how the old may have informed the new. The show features songs from the time of early penal settlement, convict rebels, gold rush bushrangers, the Kelly uprising, and the anti-conscription and labour movements.

"Their music is refreshingly open, spacious like the rural countryside they sing about." - Rootsworld Web Site, USA

"Their talent and experience in the folk scene showed as they delivered a stunning performance - there is very little more to say about them that has not already been said in praise of their artistry..." - Greg Bull, Loaded Dog Folk Club

2pm, Saturday 6th August, 2016

Humph Hall

85 Allambie Road, Allambie Heights

Formerly the Allambie Heights Uniting Church, Humph Hall is now the private home of Gial and Wayne. Bookings: 9939 8802 wayne@humphhall.org - humphhall.org